Re: ACS "Axcess" platform revocation

On January 4, 2013, the Colorado Division of Gaming received notification from the State's independent test laboratory Gaming Laboratories International (GLI), which announced an immediate revocation of all ACS "Axcess" platform certifications for GLI associated jurisdictions. The revocations impact all previously approved hardware and software certifications associated with the ACS "Axcess" game platform. A detailed list of each individual revocation has been provided to the industry on the Recently Revoked Report along with the remainder of the Colorado approval reports, accessible through the Casino EZ File system.

Although the Division understands the concerns regarding ACS "Axcess" machines, it is firm on its position to not allow revoked software to operate in the field. To remain consistent with all GLI recommendations regarding immediate revocations of hardware/software, the Division discontinued patron play on all ACS "Axcess" machines in the State.

At this time, the Division will allow all currently approved non-"Axcess" ACS (formerly AC Coin & Slot) machines to continue to operate in the State, as the hardware/software revocations do not apply to this platform, (i.e., IGT base game-AC Coin & Slot bonus top box configuration). Casino operators that choose to continue operation of such machines will assume full responsibility for daily operation and maintenance, should ACS no longer provide technical support and service.

If you have any questions regarding this notification, you may contact me at (303) 205-1316.

Sincerely,

Laura Manning Acting Director
